The suspect was out on bail, but Judge Michael Russo agreed to put her in jail in the interest of public safety. The student was arrested after an altercation with a Muslim couple outside a mosque in Cleveland, Ohio. A few days earlier, a painting depicting the prophet Mohammed was vandalized in the same neighbourhood. The judge made it clear he had no choice in the matter. “I had to do it,” Judge Russo said. “I don’t want to lose the city.” He explained that if the suspect wasn’t locked up, the safety of the city would be at risk. “I didn’t think this could happen in America anymore,” said Judge Russo. “I thought it was a safe place.” According to Cleveland’s court records, the pregnant girl threw a smoke bomb that injured a bystander. An 8-year-old girl was in the same building as the mosque at the time of the incident, and may have been traumatized. When questioned, the suspect claimed she was recording the incident for her own purposes. She was charged with aggravated riot, aggravated assault, and felony riot. 543 S.W.2d 121 (1976) Dennis B.
