Raytheon Anschütz always sticks to its ECDIS software updated to the latest IMO and class requirements. This website is for customer information. While his company continues to keep its ECDIS up to date, it also means it should be available to other companies in the maritime industry. Thus, his website, which covers all aspects of ECDIS operation and development, contains the latest updates and changes, as well as documentation on them. The site also provides download links and links to other websites dedicated to ECDIS.
