Chapter I Introduction .Human T-lymphotropic virus type I seroprevalence in Indonesia: a systematic review of three decades. Human T-lymphotropic virus type I (HTLV-I) has been identified as a possible cause of adult T-cell leukemia/lymphoma (ATLL) and HTLV-I-associated myelopathy/tropical spastic paraparesis (HAM/TSP) in western Japan. Studies in the Amazon Basin suggest a possible link with other tropical diseases such as malaria and leprosy, and the possible presence of autochthonous virus carriers has been suggested. Countries around the equator and in the Middle East are also considered areas of high risk for HTLV-I infection, and Latin America. There is some concern, also in Indonesia, an area in the Pacific Rim where several diseases of tropical origin are endemic. However, there have been no systematic evaluations of HTLV-I seropositivity in Indonesia. In this article, we present a systematic review of the literature that has been available in Indonesia on HTLV-I prevalence, as well as a proposal for a national protocol for HTLV-I testing in Indonesia, to be used during future serosurveys. 2015 Monter

A: My guess is that it is a cert error, it has something to do with the serial number being too short to be the valid certificate. Try `certutil -urlcache -d sql:cert.nist.gov:443 -delete` Check that your new cert has a serial number that will match what you have, and that in the certificate it will have the same information as your old cert. // // SYWalkingIconCell.h //
